

Be ready to unleash your #YouthPower starting at the International Youth Day -on 12 August!

As world leaders are setting global goals to end poverty, inequality and climate change, we are the generation with the power to make sure the world keeps its word. Therefore, on 12 August, in Europe and all over the world, people working towards a better future will start unleashing their #YouthPower – check below what happens in Austria, Bulgaria or Serbia to mention only few. Be one of them, support their action with a few simple steps:

1. Alone or with friends, on holiday or at the office: stand proud, strike your #YouthPower pose and catch it on your camera!
2. Then you can pin the #YouthPower sticker on your pic to make it even stronger.
3. Post it on social media using #YouthPower . Use #myEYD2015 to link up with the European Year for Development and #action2015 to let the entire world know.
4. Tag your friends and get them to share their poses. #YouthPower is stronger together.

In Austria, Jugend Eine Welt partnering with the National Youth Council widely sent to the media an Open Letter to the Austrian Government, showcasing the interest of young people in the SDGs and the importance of youth participation in policy-making.

In Bulgaria, the Gender Education Research and Technologies (GERT) Foundation is about to hold its workshop encouraging young people to unleash their #YouthPower and to proudly show it to the world with transferable tattoo designs.

In Serbia, the Centre for Human Rights and Development Studies (CHRDS) is holding mobilization events with national level youth umbrella associations and public authorities in charge of youth to foster regional cooperation between the Balkan states.

Looking forward to seeing you unleashing your #YouthPower !
